What we have about MAPs,

- Rich in plant genetic diversity above 12.000 plant taxa
 - High endemism about 4.000 taxa
 - About 1.000 economic plants taxa
- Deep ethnobotanic background
 - Geographic and climatic opportunities
 - High technology for quality analysis

What we are doing about MAPs,

- Determining of our plant genetic resources
- Collecting ethnobotanic information
- Domestication of economic plants
- Researches on Good Agricultural Practices for MAPs
- Breeding for high quality of MAPs
- To develop analytical techniques for quality
- Analysis of plants' pharmaceutical properties
- Developing novel phytopharmaceuticals
- Investigating Heavy Metals in MAPs
- Investigating marketing opportunities

Problems in MAPs' Wild Collecting and Cultivation

- Excessive collecting, grazing in wild
 - Extinction in some rare species
 - Global warming and climate change
 - Forest fires and to open fields
 - Environmental pollution
- Insufficient information about GAP for MAPs
 - Unsuitable postharvest processing and quality losses
 - Deficiency in experience for phytopharmaceuticals
 - High amounts in raw material export
 - Legal status of MAPs

Kilis'teki Oylum Höyük kazılardında, Anadolu'da camın en erken dönemde kaplarda kullanıldığını gösteren arkeolojik buluntulara ulaşıldı. Arkeolog Dr. Seniz Atik, "Burada bulduğumuz örnekler, M.O. 2. bin yıl başlarında insan yapımı camın, sır olarak kaplarda kullanıldığını gösteren en erken örneklerdir" dedi.
